

Prairie Lands Writing Project

The Prairie Lands Writing Project, founded in 1987 and housed at Missouri Western State University, works to improve student writing and the teaching of writing throughout northwest Missouri.

Our goals:

- ◆ improve writing instruction K-college
- ◆ provide a professional and intellectual home for literacy educators at all levels
- ◆ promote the National Writing Project's "teachers teaching teachers" model
- ◆ advocate for literacy education, teachers, schools, students, and communities
- ◆ promote professional development which includes a belief that the best teachers of writing are writers themselves

For more information, contact:

Dr. Susan Martens, PLWP Director smartens@missouriwestern.edu
Eder Hall 201/222
Missouri Western State University
4525 Downs Drive
Saint Joseph, MO 64507
Phone: 816-271-4315
Fax: 816-271-4543

2014 Invitational Summer Institute Participants

Core Programs:

- Invitational Summer Institute
- Graduate courses and programs
- Youth writing programs
- High School Writing Day
- Writing marathons and retreats
- Advanced Institutes
- School-based in-services

Outreach:

plwp.missouriwestern.edu

PLWP

theplwp

Missouri
Writing Projects
Network